

Hey Victoria,

This is looking so good! I agree with a lot of the choices that you are making in regards to page response to different sizes. We've already talked about the site since you've posted this, but I think adding that wallpaper as a background image at low transparency will really tie the three subpages together. As far as the responsiveness goes, I think that the jump between queries on the summary page is a little jarring between 1700 and 1400 px, which could probably be fixed by using em and vw qualifiers rather than fixed points or pixels. Also, I think that the outside left and right margins are looking a little wide, especially at lower widths. But overall, I think you're killing it! Good luck with your finals and feel free to slack me whenever!